

WRIQ Membership

About WRIQ

The Waste and Recycling Industry of Queensland (WRIQ) is the unified voice of waste management, recycling and resource recovery in the State. Representing more than 90 Queensland-based organisations ranging from multi-nationals through to small family owned and operated businesses, WRIQ engages in a broad range of state-specific issues of strategic importance to the sustainability and development of the sector.

WRIQ represents all aspects of the sector including major landfills, transfer stations, resource recovery facilities (including advanced manufacturing), sustainable and firming power facilities, and collection services.

For more than a decade, WRIQ has earned a reputation as a leader in sectoral policy development and driving change to improve the operating environment for Queensland's waste management, recycling and resource recovery sectors. Recognised as a non-partisan organisation that works effectively with all levels of government, WRIQ is acknowledged as an influential and respected advocacy group in Queensland.

Essential for community Essential for environment

Our Values

Leadership & Expertise

We are Queensland's leading association for the sector, ensuring member organisations are well informed on issues of strategic importance to both the sector and their businesses

Collaboration

We work through collaboration and partnerships to deliver positive outcomes for our members

Sustainability

We want a sustainable Queensland, including economic sustainability through levy and market support

Fairness and Equity

in how we work with our stakeholders and government, and how we recognise and embrace diversity and inclusion while promoting cooperation across the WRIQ membership

Culture

We foster a culture which recognises that sustainable natural resource management and social justice are an integral part of robust business management

WRIQ's Mission

WRIQ's mission is to elevate the waste management, recycling and resource recovery sectors through services, education and advocacy for members to achieve successful economic, social, environmental and governance outcomes. By being a member of WRIQ, you are supporting a strong and united advocacy voice.

Advocate

We develop leading positions and solutions on issues of concern to the advancement and sustainability of Queensland's waste management and resource recovery sectors and we work closely with government and other key stakeholders.

Campaign

We promote our members and raise the profile of the industry with the media and amongst broader stakeholders to achieve a greater level of understanding about industry management practices; and communicate the significant contribution of the waste management, recycling and resource recovery sectors to the Queensland economy, communities and the environment.

Inform

We publish discussion papers, research papers, project reports, safety guides and deliver expert events to assist the sector and other stakeholders understand key issues, technical advancements, and innovation opportunities. We also undertake projects that deliver practice improvements and technology adoption across our members' sites. These projects also contribute data and key findings that inform our advocacy.

Connect

We bring together Queensland's waste management and resource recovery sectors on a range of Working Groups that deal with current issues and find solutions to complex problems. We facilitate knowledge exchange and networking opportunities for our members through a range of formal and informal networking and conference events. WRIQ Working Groups include: Organics; Metals; Training; Workforce; Skills and Safety. Members also have access to our HR Advice Line, offering expert, confidential guidance on employment matters, award interpretation, and workforce compliance to support your people and your business.
